To Whom It May Concern:

I would highly recommend Archcon Architecture to anyone looking to hire an architectural services firm. Archcon Architecture has worked with our organization on two large-scale projects over the past eighteen months.

The first project involved taking conceptual designs for a Suzuki automobile dealership in New Braunfels and turning them into construction drawings to be used by the general contractor. Then Archcon was responsible for overseeing the construction of the facility as the architect of record. Archcon Architecture was able to expedite the permitting process by working closely with the city to ensure compliance with all codes and ordinances even before the plans were actually sent to the city for approval. Archcon also received high marks from the architectural team of American Suzuki Motor Corporation for its strict adherence to the details and concepts of the Suzuki design guidelines during this project.

During the construction phase Archcon Architecture was extremely involved with the details of the project. Archcon made sure that all aspects of the plans were followed and implemented by the general contractor. We requested some minor changes to the building once construction has begun, and Archcon was very accommodating with respect to these modifications. Archcon was also quick to respond to any questions by the contractor or government officials during the project. Overall we were very pleased with the design of the facility, the interaction with Archcon, and the outcome of the project.

The second project with Archcon Architecture also dealt with the design and construction of a Suzuki dealership in Dallas. This project is still in progress with construction set to start next month. This time the project required Archcon to be a part of the conceptual design rather than receiving them from Suzuki. Archcon did an excellent job of working with us to determine our needs and develop a facility that would best support our business. Like before Archcon has worked closely with the city to ensure that the permitting process should go smoothly.

It has been a pleasure to work with Archcon Architecture on these two projects. They have consistently performed their responsibilities and exceeded our expectation. Again, I would most definitely recommend Archcon Architecture to anyone looking for an architectural services firm.
